

ADMISSIONS

The School of Natural Animal Health is proud to offer professional naturopathic animal education via Distance Learning by taking advantage of modern technology, as well as traditional correspondence. The School of Natural Animal Health diplomas are generally completed within one year, and the doctorate degrees within three to four years. A student who enrolls in a doctorate program with advanced standing will be able to complete programs in a shorter period of time. How much advanced standing shall be given to a student is dependent upon his/her academic evaluation.

A person must have received a high school diploma, or its equivalent from an accredited institution to qualify for entrance into the School of Natural Animal Health diploma and/or degree programs.

Persons may be admitted to a doctorate degree program at an advanced level by being exempted from certain courses if they possess academic qualifications in the realm of veterinary science, medicine, or technology. A review of all previous academic records will be complete, and credits, if applicable, will be determined within thirty days of the official application.

To be considered for enrollment in one of our diploma or degree programs, please fill out the enclosed application and mail or fax it or visit our website at www.kcnh.org and fill out our online application.
